

FROM PHILADELPHIA TO WILLIAMSPORT.

Editorial Correspondence of The Evening Telegraph. WILLIAMSPORT, June 14, 1871. No more striking illustration of the progress of Pennsylvania could be given than that furnished by the varied scenes along the railroad route between Philadelphia and Williamsport.

After passing the line of the Philadelphia and Columbia Railroad and approaching Harrisburg, the old iron system looms prominently into view, stretching westward and northward along the line of the Susquehanna and its tributaries; and, while it still retains its utility for heavy freight at favorable seasons, it recalls many reminiscences of the days of packet-boats, when a speed of five miles an hour was the best resource for the speed of twenty-five miles per hour with which we were whirled along yesterday over the Pennsylvania from Philadelphia to Harrisburg.

The aspect of the country, and especially of the towns along the line, has improved nearly as much as the facilities for travel. Hamlets have grown into villages, villages into towns, towns into cities, while many spots unknown by special designations to our ancestors are now important depots or stations; and the work of improvement still goes bravely on, with the continued construction of new railway branches, of additional tracks on old railways, and of new industrial establishments.

Throwing out of view all material interests, the ride from Philadelphia to Williamsport offers to the lovers of varied, beautiful, and romantic scenery a series of splendid attractions. After the eye of the tourist has lingered with delight upon the suburbs of Philadelphia, Chester Valley, and the broad expanse of fertility opened up in Lancaster county, there commences a grand succession of mountain ridges, and picturesque gaps formed by the Susquehanna, which, with its tributaries, drains the central portions of the State; the west branch extending from Sunbury to Williamsport as far beyond, while the north branch forms the bed of the valley of Wyoming, and, with its forks, traverses a large portion of the tier of northern counties.

Along the banks of the Susquehanna the scenery assumes a new loveliness. Its broad, placid waters are framed into a glorious picture by the grand contours of Clark's Ferry, a short distance beyond Harrisburg. Further on, the peaceful curves harden into ever majestic, and palisade-like bluffs rise from the stream in long stretches of regular rock, looking like the vestiges of the city wall girdling the home of some extinct giant race. At each successive step in ascending the river the scenery is happily diversified, the hills at times assuming gentle undulating curves and again rising in harsher lines into proportions of greater grandeur. The scene is lent to the eye a light and airy character, the charm by that succession of sunshine and shadow which reveals every beauty in the landscape rich with the opulent verdure of June. The wheat-fields gleamed with all the soft and lustrous intermingling shades that mark its approaching ripeness, and the oats swayed softly in gentle ripples of silvered greenery, while along the roadside a summer snow of elder blossoms showed an unwonted luxuriance. In the midst of the wide expanse of the waters of the Susquehanna, innumerable tiny islands were clothed in greenest grass or tangled thicket, and the luxuriant verdure spread on every side until even that most prosaic of all utilities, the tow-path, brightened into a gleaming thread of green braided into the silvery ribbons of the water upon either side. Near Northumberland a rugged landscape answers to the name, and the mountain sides are ploughed with rifts that beneath the softening effect of distance show like belts of rich, warm brown gleaming from between the fine forest trees, and to complete the panoramic panorama a sunset of golden haze rested upon the mountains, changing them into a purple tint as rich as it is rare, and ushering in that loveliest of all hours when over the green meadow stretches the golden rays of the lingering light, and the stars slowly marshal into rank through the shades of twilight. BISMARCK AND JAY COOKE. Letter from the German Premier to the Hon. Mr. Bismarck. Last June Mr. Jay Cooke, who was then at "Gibraltar," Lake Erie, learning through Baron Gerolt that Bismarck contemplated visiting this country, and especially desired retirement and rest, sent a cordial invitation proffering to the Count the hospitalities not only of his island home, but also those of "Gibraltar," the really agreeable Chelton Hills. Within a few days Mr. Cooke has received the following autograph letter from Prussia Bismarck.

BISMARCK, May 18, 1871. Dear Sir:—Your letter of the 12th of June just reached me on the 11th of July. If you remember how shortly that date was followed by the French declaration of war, you will excuse the otherwise unpardonable delay in answering so kind an invitation. Being about to embark in a diplomatic campaign very likely to lead to an armed conflict, I felt doubly impressed with the charms of your secluded island and your desire for hospitality. Peace is now happily restored, but a great deal remains to be done at home, and I do not know when it will be given me to satisfy my old longing for your country. Accept the assurances of my heartfelt gratitude and distinguished consideration. VON BISMARCK. To JAY COOKE, Esq., Philadelphia.

Communication. To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph. It is hoped you will pardon the writer in occupying your valuable columns with a few congratulatory remarks respecting Franklin B. Gowen, Esq., President of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company. Long since, having become solicitous with reference to the policies which would seem to govern the management of the railroad corporations of our State, much uneasiness was occasioned on my part, upon the inauguration of this gentleman, as to whether the admirable example of his predecessor would be adopted, or whether he would be hurried along in the current of the age and drift into the errors and aberrations of a railroad president. To be a leaguer of the latter class, the writer has for more than a year scrutinized the actions of Mr. Gowen with respect to the policies which he has instituted for the advancement of the interests of shareholders, and as regards the principles by which he has been governed in his transactions with the patrons of the company over which he presides. It is gratifying that the results of this cautious investigation has successfully demonstrated that a gentleman—by which is meant a man of honor—is par excellence qualified to represent the position of railroad president, and that the corporation which is thus governed becomes divested of its objectionable features to the community, and in being unincumbered with the private interests of officers, directors, and employees, assumes its true character of an improved highway, securing to its owners their dues, guaranteeing to its patrons their rights, and becoming a powerful auxiliary to the industrial progress of the country. In his career he has presented an example of reform in their management, which must before long arouse the attention of the public to the fact of how little good is comparatively derived, and how much more could be attained under a proper guidance of these modern instruments of advancement; indeed, it may be said Mr. Gowen occupies the enviable attitude of a model railroad president.

In attesting this much, more is meant than the mere declaration would seem to imply, because "to be honest as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand." In fact, a model railroad president must administer not the arbitrary regime of Napoleon with the iron conscience of Nero, but he requires the qualities of unusual precision, rare intelligence, and marked decision joined to unflinching integrity, propriety, and justice.

In this position (which is made honorable only when honorably represented) a man's nature is tested and developed. The power with which he is invested and the beguiling allurements with which he is surrounded, the influence which he wields through the money-bags of the corporation, show him as he is, undisguised, it may be, as a despot, tyrant, or as a Christian gentleman, who in his official capacity is not unmindful of moral duties towards his employees and those who are largely dependent upon the use of the highway under his direction.

In conclusion, it must be admitted that Mr. Gowen, avoiding the exercise of arbitrary corporate authority, has, by a modest bearing and by an administration of honesty and justice, acquired an independent moral power which, in not begetting enmity, has, like the magnet, gathered around it the support of the community in evidence of its own strength. In the practice of these virtues, this gentleman exemplifies the early teachings of his venerable and highly-respected father; remembering, also, that while "it is excellent to have a giant's strength, it is tyrannous to use it like a giant." A BUILDING SAVED BY A FIRE EXTINGUISHER.—The utility of fire extinguishers is daily becoming more apparent, and at 10 o'clock on Friday the thunder storm of Wednesday evening last, the Chester Dock Mills, in Chester, Pa., owned by Messrs. Lewis & Parker, were struck by lightning. The building was set on fire, which the watchman attempted to extinguish, but not succeeding he blew the whistle of the factory. This attracted the attention of some of the employees, among whom was John Clough, who hastened to the mill, and procured one of the Union fire extinguishers belonging to the firm, by the aid of which he put out the fire, and saved the factory. The damage was but slight. Those who believe in the old adage "that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" should obtain one of these extinguishers without delay.—From the West Jersey Press.

The Rev. Dr. NEWTON will preside. On FRIDAY EVENING, 16th instant, in CONCERT HALL, when addresses will be delivered on Systematic Giving, to the Cause of the Poor, and the Hon. Mayor FOX will preside. All members of Evangelical Churches are invited to attend.

W. M. MOORHEAD, President and Treasurer. WILLIAM BUCKNELL, Vice-President. JAMES LONG, Assistant Treasurer. RICHARD NEWTON, Secretary. 613 31". THIS IS THE REASON OF THE YEAR when the system should be thoroughly purged of the humors which create disease. There is no purgative so mild and efficacious as HELMBOLD'S GRAPE PILLS, causing neither nausea or gripping pains—as the case with the ordinary cheap patent pills of the day—most of which are composed of calomel or mercury, and carelessly prepared by inexperienced persons—carefully purging the system use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA, the Great Purgative, and they will insure new life, new blood, and renewed vigor. Try them.

SPECIAL NOTICE—A M. D. E. N. AND AMBOY RAILROAD LEASE. STOCKHOLDERS of the CAMDEN AND AMBOY RAILROAD, DELAWARE AND RARITAN CANAL AND NEW JERSEY RAILROAD AND TRANS-PORTATION COMPANY, are invited to sign a consent to lease the works to the PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD, now ready at the office of SAMUEL WELSH, Chairman, No. 218 S. Delaware avenue; D. M. ROBINSON, No. 128 S. Third street; G. W. BACON & CO., No. 315 Walnut street; THOMAS A. BIDDLE & CO., No. 326 Walnut at BULL & NORTH, Third and Dock streets. 610 101.

ALL POWDERS AND OUTWARD APPLICATIONS close up the pores of the skin, rendering it harsh, coarse, and flabby, and in short time the complexion is sallow and unattractive. Healthy, and youthful appearance, purgative the system thoroughly; use HELMBOLD'S GRAPE PILLS and HELMBOLD'S SARSAPARILLA, which beautifies the complexion. Beware of those cheap patent pills carelessly prepared by inexperienced persons—vended in wooden boxes—most of which contain either calomel, mercury, or other 53whstwr drugs.

THE PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON, AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD COMPANY. PHILADELPHIA, June 10, 1871. The Board of Directors have declared a semi-annual dividend of FOUR PER CENT on the capital stock of the Company, clear of United States tax, payable on and after July 1. G. W. HORNER, Secretary. 614

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA is the Great Blood Purifier; thoroughly cleanses and renovates the entire system, and readily enters into the circulation of the blood, after purging with HELMBOLD'S GRAPE PILLS, the food humors that have accumulated in the system for years. Both are carefully prepared according to the rules of Pharmacy and Chemistry, and are perfectly reliable. A test of 20 years has proved this. Try them. 53 whstwr

SEWING MACHINES. The American Button-Hole, Overseaming, And Complete Sewing Machine Combined

Has had an unprecedented sale since its introduction. They have stood the TEST OF THE SEVEREST CRITICISM, and have withstood the vilest and most malignant abuse from rival agents. The simple fact of its DOING EVERY VARIETY of work done by other Machines, making the same absolutely—should convince any candid person of its EQUAL MERITS, at least, with other machines, and when we combine the BUTTON-HOLE and the OVER-AND-OVER-STITCHING (by which stitches are made, and several other kinds of work which no other machine can do), it should convince any one of its SUPERIOR MERITS.

The tedious work of making Button-holes and the slow, tiresome work of "overseaming" is made easy by this Machine, and while you are buying a Machine which is to be your companion for life, why not get the one which does the greatest variety of work? We add a few recommendations:—I like the American better than any sewing machine I have ever used. I can make a better button-hole on it than can be made by hand; but, of course, it takes practice. I have made fifty-nine (59) button-holes in twenty (20) minutes in skeleton coats. I have had the machine four months and I have made 888 button-holes in coats, which have all proved satisfactory. I have changed the machines from button-holes to plain sewing a great many times, and it never gets out of order. It affords me pleasure to recommend the machine to all, both for family sewing and making button-holes. Wishing you much success.

Mrs. L. E. DUNNING, East Boston, No. 50 Conder street, Boston, June 27, 1870.—Dear Sir:—We are using one of your Plain American Sewing Machines, and find it the most successful of any we have ever used, particularly for sewing window shades and window blinds, making the stitch look well on the wrong side of the work—a result which we have not been able to attain with other machines. W. B. ELLIS & CO., Upholsterers, No. 22 Brookline street, Boston, July 19, 1870.—I have used the American Buttonhole and Sewing Machine Combined for five months in making button-holes in the ribs of pants, etc., and they have given perfect satisfaction. P. FARRELL, Foreman at Minor, Beal & Co.'s Clothing Manufactory, N. H., March 12, 1870.—Dear Sir:—I also take pleasure in saying that I have for the past two years used these machines in the manufacture of clothing, and I think that for even work, and certainty of execution, there is no machine extant that will compare with them. For the past twelve years I have used a number of different makes of machines, including two of I. M. Singer's, and I make no mistake when I say that I never had a machine in my shop or house that was so well compared with the American Machine. A. J. EDMUNDS, Proprietor of the Eagle Clothing House, COMPANY'S SALESROOMS, No. 129 CHESNUT STREET.
